

ABSTRACT

A trigonometric measuring device and method for obtaining measurements of palladium or arched windows, particularly in 5 difficult positions, such as high places while standing upon a ladder, and for creating a template suitable for design and installation of window treatments.